

Sustainability

Engagement Letter (ESG)

Environmental, Social e Governance

We live in the age of sustainability, a concept at the heart of the ecological transition. The rapid and widespread diffusion of this term within society, companies and institutions has made it a common factor in many communication initiatives. It is spoken of in such a variety of ways and contexts as to risk the impoverishment of the meaning of this word: Sustainability.

Instead, it is important to understand the roots of this word, which go back to the Latin 'sub-tenere', i.e., to hold from below so that something does not fall. From this, it is easy to understand how such action, as well as sustainability in its broadest sense, is not a natural process, but a voluntary and continuous effort, lasting over time.

So sustainability cannot and should not be considered just a buzzword, but is the search for new ways of living and working, which are long-term, more conscious and more respectful.

It has in its DNA the concreteness of behaviour, actions of responsibility and results.

Jodovit S.r.l. through its 'ESG-Policy' helps to identify and communicate the commitment to environmental, social and governance issues that generate our activities and the goals we aim to achieve in the near future.

It is our contribution to sustainable development that can preserve the future of the next generations and their environment.

It is our concrete commitment to act today with a renewed sense of responsibility.

We do it for our People, for the Environment around us and for the Future of us all.
